"The Outstanding Civic Asset of a Community is the Integrity of its Newspaper"

Quotes From The News

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

NAPLES, Fla. — A Naples, Fla., newspaper, commenting on the apparent indifference of local inhabitants to the murder trial here of doctor-hypnotist Carl A. Coppolino: "To this community the Coppolino case deserves slightly more interest than the performing ducks at a nearby attraction and a bit less than the semi-annual sloshing of the swamp buggy races."

WASHINGTON — Rep. William C. Cramer, Fla., ranking Republican on the House Public Works subcommittee, complaining at a complex administration bill aimed at removing billboards and cleaning up junkyards under the proposed Highway Beautification Act: "The President sends up a pipe dream approach which he should realize at the outset cannot be accomplished, then he lets us sweat it out."

SAIGON — South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, expressing a willingness to go to the demilitarized zone of Ben Hai, if Hanoi really wants peace: "In case Ho Chi Minh goes to Ben Hai, I will go there to meet him."

BONN — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, voicing his faith in Britain after visiting that country on a "learn and listen" tour in behalf of President Johnson: "If I ever had any doubts about her, they have been removed. The United States has never had a more faithful, responsible and dedicated ally than this nation."

A Bible Thought For Today

God is our refuge and strength a very present help in time of trouble. — Psalm 46:1.
Earth has no shelter that can really protect us from dangers imminent in our day. True peace of mind and inner security can come only through faith in God.

Today is Wednesday, April 5, the 96th day of 1967 with 270 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and full stage.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

U.S. educator Booker T. Washington was born on this day in 1856.

On this day in history:

In 1614, Pocahontas, daughter of Indian chief Powhatan, married English colonist John Rolfe.

In 1792, President George Washington vetoed a congressional bill for appointment of representation, thereby setting a precedent.

In 1961, atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death.

In 1964, Gen. Douglas MacArthur died at the age of 64.

A thought for the day: British novelist Enoch Arnold Bennett once said: "Pessimism, once you get used to it, is just as agreeable as optimism."

ADULTS MUST BE

selves, and to pay far more attention to their feelings, hopes, doubts and fears than will an adult. The emphasis upon these factors and youth's seeming inability to recognize the dangers that are so vivid to the adult leads the adult to write off the youth's ideas and attitudes as selfish, immature and shortsighted. He ends up by paying very little attention to what the youth is trying to tell him.

The adult on the other hand tends to pay more attention to survival in a hard world than to getting the most out of life. He concentrates more upon prevention or control of the risks and dangers in his life than learning from experiencing these aspects of life. This concern for the dangers of life leads him to struggle to control the behavior of people: himself, youth, and others. This attitude leads the youth to write off the adult as afraid to really live, and as having sold out to the "rat race." Since the youth claims he wants to avoid this self-off, he feels he has to disregard the suggestions of advice and counsel the adult so freely offers.

The result is that youth and adult are rarely able to talk with each other with any important degree of understanding. Because of the difficulty of real communication, both youth and adults tend to stop trying to talk with each other and settle for talking at and about each other. The situation has gone so far that both adult and youth have a carefully nurtured feeling of superiority over the other. They don't realize that each has much to say to and learn from the other.

They seem to be living in two very different worlds. We see these differences expressed in language, behavior, music, and dress, among other things. These outward differences spring in part from their desire to seem different, and in part directly from their very different approaches to life and their different understanding of its essential character.

What does all this say about youth in the Church? It seems to me that it says that effective youth work will have to be based on indoctrination and more on discovery. There will be less emphasis on telling youth what adults want them to know, and more on helping youth to discover and work out answers to the questions they talk about so much among themselves.

Basically youth need a place and a community of people where it is safe to be one's self; where it is safe to be open, honest and straight. They need a place and a community of people where they can talk about and act with regard to the most important aspects and problems of their lives: that is, religion, life, sex, sex, parents. Ordinarily they find this community among their friends, and the place may be the driveway or Dairy Queen. Unhappily such talk is ordinarily only rarely possible with parents or in Church activities.

If the Church is to do effective work among the youth it will try to encourage safe and open communities within itself. These communities may grow out of Church school groups or youth groups. However they arise, they need to be groups where trust and acceptance can be nurtured and developed until it is safe to talk about anything.

The adults within these groups will have a new role to learn. They will have to become leaders rather than teachers. They will help the young find or work out the answers rather than give them their own hard-won, pre-digested answers. In the end, of course, the leader realizes he is engaged in the same sort of search as are the young. Often, he has as much to learn from them as they have from him.

The adult can be of vital importance in the group because his different experience in life and greater knowledge of the resources of the Church enable him to help and guide the youth in their search. However, he must come to realize that only as he demonstrates himself to be trustworthy and honest will his offerings be accepted.

The real hope is to help both youth and adults discover that they are not enemies fighting for control of each other, nor even separate groups who live in different worlds. We are all one together in the world and in this town. We are all fellow human beings who are bound inseparably full bloom too.

They finally got the top on the new university Administration building. Each time they put on a new floor, we figured that was it, but up they went with another. They are at the top now and fixing the roof.

We haven't inspected the Sumac tree which grows out of the back of Ward-Elkins Store, but we feel sure it is coming right along.

The Hollyhocks are coming up at the corner of the municipal parking lot.

We'll have to check down at Mrs. Kelley's place to see if those are coming up again this year.

Saw Mrs. Ray Kern this morning for the first time in some months.

Says Ray has turned into a regular farmer.

Mom Should Heed Her Son's Request

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Will you please just suppose to say that "Mama answer this quickly? My only son went to get Daddy, and will bring him to Grandma's house. After this disgusting two-day sex orgy, the children and I will be allowed to greet him!

I may not like your answer, Abby, but I will abide by it. I think this request is highly unfair to me. Just sign me—

ONLY HIS MOTHER

DEAR ONLY: It is your son's request, Mother. Forget everything other than fulfilling it.

DEAR ABBY: To get right to the point, I do not care for dogs in my house. This goes for big dogs, little dogs, and even the hairless kind that are not supposed to smell, but do. They are all dogs to me. We reared our children and had dogs for them, but they were never allowed in the house. They slept in doghouses or out in the garage.

My problem: We have relatives who are dog-crazy. They love their dogs more than some people love their children. These relatives have visited us, and brought their dogs along—knowing how I feel about them, and have even taken them into their beds! Abby, we have just redecorated our home, installed new carpets, and recovered our furniture, and I do not want dogs on it.

These relatives are coming again. How can I let them know they are welcome but not their dogs, without having them think I am an old crab?

NO DOG LOVER

DEAR NO DOG LOVER: You can tell them before they arrive that they are welcome, but their dogs are not. But don't be surprised if you get the "here me—love my dog" bit. They WILL think you are an old crab but you'll have kept the dogs out of your home, and that's the object, isn't it?

DEAR ABBY: The other day I was jolted by a flaw in an otherwise stunning 21-year-old blonde. On my first approach to her, I noticed that her teeth badly needed brushing. I realize that this could happen to anyone occasionally, but with this girl, it is a habit.

The idea of kissing a girl with rotting food particles between her teeth is utterly revolting. Someone should tell her, but I am not the one. How about you?

DEAR STUNNED: Since I consider it a kindness to offer constructive criticism, I'll do it. Girls, look at your teeth after you've eaten, and, if necessary, slip away and privately use a bit of dental floss. F. S. You, too, fellows.

EVERY DAY IS DOLLAR DAY AT DOLLAR GENERAL STORES

The Double F is heading into its sixth month and we're only a year and a half behind already. Seems we're "backing up," however we might get even in about two years. We've had no more news and take no more pictures. Hang on friends if you have the patience, you may see your game, your family and your hunting dogs.

Goofed again! Didn't get the Burns club's hunt mentioned or the Twin Lakes club's meeting either. The Burns club held their wild goose hunt Saturday night, April 1st. Sorry fellows, it wasn't intentional, but for the difference it makes now, it might as well have been. We will attempt to treat you more fairly next time. Before their regular monthly hunt is always on the first Saturday night of each month. Someone please call me and a letter with your events scheduled (enough in advance to allow for all our delays), and you shall be mentioned.

The Twin Lakes Coonhunters Club had their first meeting of the month Monday night, April 3rd. Believe their next meeting is April 10th, next Monday night. Their monthly hunt is on Saturday night, April 15th. Burns, Hickman and Twin Lakes officers, please prepare a written memo of your special interest (before you come to the Twin Lakes hunt April 15th) and give them to "ole useless" in person! Maybe that will insure your club getting the proper mention. Could be possible we would get a little accuracy. Would it be practical to ask each club to have all of their officers present at Twin Lakes, April 15th? If so perhaps we could get a group picture of each club's officers to print when we run the events and dates. But you will simply have to help, maybe yell a little also! If you play the "shrinking violet" you're sunk, as Junior will "blow the whole deal." Get down to business fellows and look after your club's interest.

Mr. C. A. Kell: Thank you sir, for the nice letter. You forgot to mention the trophy winners for the March 26th Treeline Contest, Drag Race and Water Race. As you have noticed Fins 'N Feathers didn't make yesterday's issue again. I'll pass on the excellent results you achieved as soon as possible. Sir, I am looking forward to seeing you at the Twin Lakes hunt, April 15th. Will you please accept the responsibility for bringing written information on your club activities? Also please be prepared to identify the Hickman members and their hounds. Try to get all of your officers to attend this once, so we can get a group picture.

Please tell Mr. Joe House I would really enjoy meeting him. A fellow who consistently turns out such champion hounds as does this gentleman, should be met and mentioned. Ask him to please attend the April 15th hunt at the Twin Lakes club, as a special favor to Fins 'N Feathers. PLEASE!

Bobby Williams and "Saturday Night's Dinner"

Bobby is our very special young fishin' buddy. This youngster is seldom seen and you never hear about him, because he is shy, unpretentious, courteous and makes no effort to impress you. He doesn't "put on airs" — neither does he resort to weird hair-dos and beards. Kids, don't get the idea "he's square" for he's "with it," he accomplishes this and still remains a young gentleman. The type youngster any of us would wish for our own. Maybe just a bit too shy and serious, but always considerate of others and, like we said, our best buddy! We could use a few more Bobbies in our crowd. Our small fry rates him above the "Beatles" and the "Monkees", and that's as high as you can climb, ole friend.

James Baker and 4-year-old Stefanie with a "bigger bass" than shown in the picture. James and Janice Baker have three youngsters: Stefanie, Tim Jr. and Shaun. They reside at 1300 Olive, Murray.

Oyler Hitting Tigers Winning May Mean Flag

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Ray Oyler gets a hit about as often as the Detroit Tigers win a pennant.

This could be the season that both events happen. Oyler's bound to get a hit or two before the season is over but if he can get enough to enable the Tigers to keep his sick glove in the lineup, it'll boost their bid for their first pennant in 22 years.

If Oyler manages to hit .230, he could be a valuable addition to the lineup because he's such a good fielder and the Tigers have moved Dick McAuliffe to second base this year in the expectation that Oyler will do the job.

But the trouble is, his lifetime batting average in 153 big league games is a microscopic .178.

Oyler, though, looked like a hitter Tuesday when he rapped out three hits—including two in one inning—to help the Tigers lambast the New York Mets 14-1.

Of course, Oyler's teammates, known for their hitting feats, also helped out as Norm Cash and Jim Northrup made two hits each. Rookie George Spriggs' triple ignited a three-run eighth inning rally against Dennis Bennett that carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Pittsburgh came to life after being blanked for seven innings by Darrell Brandon.

Frank Robinson was in mid-season form as he knocked in three runs with a homer and a double to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-4 triumph over the Washington Senators. Dave McNally allowed eight hits but just one run in six innings to earn the victory.

Tim Lincecum's first hit of the spring, a bases-loaded single, in the bottom of the ninth inning gave the Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The usually light-hitting Chicago White Sox exploded for 17 runs to crush the Minnesota Twins 12-7. Homers by Tommie Agee his sixth of the spring and Tommy McCraw highlighted the attack.

The St. Louis Cardinals rallied for five runs in the seventh inning to turn back the Philadelphia Phillies 6-4. A pinch-hitter by Ted Savage, a 359 hitter this spring, led the uprising. Clay Darynpe had a three-run homer for the Dodgers in the fifth inning.

Yanks Win
The New York Yankees exploded for four runs in the fifth inning to edge the Atlanta Braves 5-3. Ray Barker, subbing for Mickey Mantle at first base, drove in two of the runs off Braves' starter Bob Bruce with a single. Hal Bennett started and picked up the victory for the Yanks.

The Murray State baseball team will open defense of its Western Division championship of the Ohio Valley Conference today when it hosts Western Kentucky.

The undefeated Racor tennis team begins a tour of the South Saturday during which it will play Pensacola Navy, Florida State, Bain Air Force Base, Alabama, Mississippi State, Tennessee, and Louisiana State.

The golf team played Southern Illinois and Austin Peay Monday and will play Southeast Missouri Thursday before taking a week off for vacation. The track team is scheduled to run in the Kentucky Relays at Lexington Saturday, at home against Western, April 11, and in the Civilian Relays in Memphis April 15.

The baseball team won 4 and lost 3 last week and have a 7-4 record going into Wednesday's game. The Racors swept a 3-game series from Purdue, split 2 games with St. Louis, and lost 2 to Bradley. They had previously beaten Iowa State twice and split 2 with Kansas State.

The tennis team has beaten Henry Ford Community College 9-0, Wisconsin State 9-0, and Indiana State 8-1. The golf team finished 10th in the 20-team Cape Coral, Fla., Invitational, and the track team lost to Southeast Missouri 71-67.

Livingstone Man Is Fined $500 For Selling Game Fish

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 3 — A 48-year-old Livingston County commercial fisherman accused of selling game fish was fined $500 Friday in Livingston County Court at Smithland.

Judge Ralph Smith meted out the fine to James Gregory of Grand River.

Officers of the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources had alleged in an affidavit that they bought black bass, croppie, white bass and sauger from Gregory on two separate dates in 1966.

Livingston County Sheriff's deputy J. D. Ramage said he arrested Gregory March 23 at a fish market Gregory operated between the lakeside communities of Grand Rivers and Lake City.

Gregory was the second commercial fisherman from the Kentucky Lake-Barkley area to be fined recently for selling fish protected by law as game fish.

Robert Stodd of Murray was fined $1,000 and given a six-month suspended jail sentence on a similar charge brought before Calloway County Judge Hall McGuiston on March 21.

Under Pressure Makes Me Better, Clay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay, who says he fights better under pressure, should be at his best when he defends his heavyweight title against former champ Floyd Patterson April 25 in Las Vegas.

"I'm not feeling too good for this fight," said Clay. "I have all that draft pressure and other problems, like having to sell a couple of my cars and three days after the fight, I have to go for induction."

Patterson, a 22-year-old veteran with flecks of gray in his hair, jokingly added, "I'd say the pressure's all on him. He'll be going in as a 10-1 favorite, and he's got to live up to it."

The last time the two met on Nov. 22, 1965, in Las Vegas, Clay stopped Patterson in the 12th round. Patterson was troubled by a bad back and was doubled over from pain before Clay even landed any telling blows.

Many predicted the loss would end his career, but Patterson has fought three times since then with three knockouts to his credit. The most impressive were a fourth round kayo of Henry Cooper last year and a quick one-round knockout of Californian Bill McMurray last week in Pittsburgh.

For his last fight before his showdown with the draft board, Clay will receive a $225,000 guarantee or 50 percent of all revenue while Patterson will get a flat percentage of 20 percent from the gate and 15 percent from the ancillaries.

The promoter is Championship Sports Inc., which handled three of Patterson's other title fights, and the ancillaries are owned by Main Bout the formal contract for the upcoming fight was signed here Tuesday.
